Transportation Glossary

A

Accessibility: The extent to which facilities, including transit vehicles, are free of barriers and can be used by people who have disabilities, including wheelchair users.

ADA complementary paratransit service: The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requires public transit agencies that provide fixed-route service to provide “complementary paratransit” services to people with disabilities who cannot use the fixed-route bus or rail service because of a disability. ADA regulations specifically define a population of customers who are entitled to this service as a civil right. The regulations also define minimum service characteristics that must be met for this service to be considered equivalent to the fixed-route service it is intended to complement. In general, ADA complementary paratransit service must be provided within 3/4 of a mile of a bus route or rail station, at the same hours and days, for no more than twice the regular fixed route fare.

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA): Passed by Congress in 1990, this Act mandates equal opportunities for people with disabilities in the areas of employment, transportation, communications, and public accommodations. Under ADA, most transportation providers are obliged to purchase lift-equipped vehicles for their fixed-route services and must ensure system-wide accessibility of their demand-responsive services to people with disabilities. Public transit providers also must supplement their fixed-route services with paratransit services for those people unable to use fixed-route services because of their disability.

Administration on Aging (AoA): An agency of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services that is headed by an Assistant Secretary for Aging. It is the federal focal point and advocacy agency for older persons, as mandated by AoA, and administers most AoA programs at the federal level. AoA funds six core services: Supportive services (including transportation); Nutrition; Preventive health services; National Family Caregiver Support Program; Services that protect the rights of vulnerable older persons; etc. AoA provides leadership, technical assistance, and support to the national aging network.

Transportation Glossary

Area Agency on Aging (AAA or Triple A): A public or private non-profit agency, designated by the state to address the needs and concerns of all older Americans at the regional and local levels. The term "area agency on aging" is a generic term—specific names of local AAAs [IRS designation of 501(c)(3)] may vary. Triple A's are primarily responsible for a geographic area that is a city, a single county, or a multi-county district. Triple A's may be characterized as a county, city, regional planning council, council of governments, or non-profit or for-profit business. All Triple A's perform three important functions: Creating multi-year plans, providing information and referral on available services and programs, and coordinating AoAs and other funds that support their service area.

Busway: A roadway reserved for buses only. Also known as a "bus lane."

Circulator bus: A bus that makes frequent trips around a small geographic area with numerous stops along the route. It is typically operated in a downtown area or an area that attracts tourists or large crowds and has limited parking and congested roads. It may be operated all day or only at times of peak demand, such as rush hour or lunch time.

Community transportation: The family of transportation services in a community, including public and private sources, that are available to respond to the mobility needs of all community members.

Consolidated Transportation Services Agency (CTSA): A CTSA is a designation under state law, that promotes the optimization of resources and operations dedicated to specialized transportation services. FACT is the CTSA in the San Diego region and services provided by the CTSA include transportation referrals by telephone, website referrals, and conducting training workshops on topical issues related to mobility.

Curb-to-curb service: A common designation for paratransit services, in which the transit vehicle picks up and discharges passengers at the curb or driveway in front of their home or destination. In curb-to-curb service, the driver does not assist the passenger along walks or steps to the door of the home or other destination.

D

Demand-response service: This type of transit service allows individual passengers to request transportation from a specific location to another specific location at a certain time. These services often require advance reservations.

Disabled: Any person who by reason of illness, injury, age, congenital malfunction, or other permanent or temporary incapacity or disability is unable, without special facilities, to use local transit facilities and services as effectively as people who are not so affected.

Door-to-door service: A form of paratransit service that includes passenger assistance between the vehicle and the door of the passenger's home or other destination. Door-to-door offers a higher level of service than curb-to-curb, yet not as specialized as "door-through-door" service, in which the driver actually provides assistance within the origin or destination.

Door-through-door service: Passenger service is provided through the door of the residence and/or the destination by a driver or transportation escort.

F

Fare box revenue: A public transportation term for the money or tickets collected as payment for rides. Fare box revenue can include cash, tickets, tokens, transfers, or pass receipts.

Fare structure: The basis for determining how fares are charged. Common types of fare structures are distance-based (the longer the trip, the higher the fare), time-based (higher fares for trips made during peak hour service), or quality-based (demand-responsive trips usually cost more than fixed route trips or flat fares). Fare structure may also differ based on passenger age, income, or disability. For example, often lower fares are charged for older adults, children and youth, Medicaid recipients, people with limited income, and people with disabilities.

Transportation Glossary

Federal Transit Administration (FTA): A component of the U.S. Department of Transportation that administers federal funding to support a variety of locally planned, constructed, and operated public transportation systems throughout the U.S., including buses, subways, light rail, commuter rail, streetcars, monorail, passenger ferry boats, inclined railways, and people movers. FTA provides financial assistance for capital, operating, and planning costs of public transportation systems.

Fixed route service: Transit services in which vehicles run on regular, scheduled routes with fixed stops and no deviation. Typically, fixed-route service is characterized by printed schedules or timetables, designated bus stops where passengers board and exit and the use of larger transit vehicles.

Flexible routing and schedules: Flexible route service follows a direction of travel but allows for deviation or rerouting along the way to accommodate specific trip requests. Examples of flexible route systems are route deviation and point deviation.

H

Headway: The length of time at a stop between buses following the same route. If buses operating along Route A arrive at Stop 1 at 9:00AM, 9:30AM, 10:00AM, and so on, these are half-hour headways. When headways are short the service is said to be operating at a high frequency. If headways are long, service is operating at a low frequency.

Human services transportation: Transportation for clients of a specific human or social service agency that is usually limited to a specific trip purpose. Human service agency trips are often provided under contract to a human service agency and may be provided exclusively or rideshared with other human service agencies or general public service.

Transportation Glossary

M

Mode, intermodal, multimodal: Mode refers to a form of transportation, such as automobile, transit, bicycle, and walking. Intermodal refers to the connections between modes, and multimodal refers to the availability of transportation options within a system or corridor.

N

The fundamental purpose of the NRC is to support states and communities in better integrating public transportation services with the services and demands of their human services networks.

National Center for Senior Transportation (NCST): A resource and technical assistance center funded by the FTA (Federal Transit Administration) and administered by Easter Seals Inc., in partnership with the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging. Additional team members are the National Association of State Units on Aging (NASUA), the Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA), the American Society on Aging (ASA) and the Beverly Foundation. Also guiding NCST work is a national steering committee of experts in senior transportation issues.

National Network on Aging: the network of federal, state, and local agencies (U.S. Administration on Aging, state units on aging, and Area Agencies on Aging) created by the Older Americans Act.

Transportation Glossary

Non-Emergency Medical Transportation (NEMT): Transportation service provided to individuals who are not in an emergency situation but need more assistance than a taxi service is able to provide. Service providers will be specially equipped to transport riders in wheelchairs, stretchers, or with other special needs.

O

Older Americans Act (OAA): Federal law first passed in 1965. The act established a national network of federal, state, and local agencies to plan and provide services to enable older persons to maintain their independence in their homes and communities. The Act created the infrastructure for organizing, coordinating, and providing community-based services and opportunities for older Americans and their families.

P

Paratransit: Types of passenger transportation that are more flexible than conventional fixed-route transit but more structured than the use of private automobiles. Paratransit is a broad term that may be used to describe any means of shared ride transportation other than fixed-route mass transit services. Paratransit services usually use smaller vehicles (less than 25 passengers) and provide advance-reservation, demand-responsive service that is either curb-to-curb or door-to-door. Paratransit services that are provided to accommodate passengers with disabilities who are unable to use fixed route services and that meet specific service equivalency tests are called ADA complementary paratransit services.

R

Rapid transit: Rail or bus transit service that is separated from other modes of transportation on an exclusive right-of-way. Often operates as an express service with a minimal number of stops.

Transportation Glossary

Rideshare/ride match program: A program that facilitates the formation of carpools and vanpools, usually for work trips. Such programs maintain a database including information on ride times, origins, destinations, and driver/rider preferences of users and potential users. Individuals requesting to join an existing pool or those looking for riders are matched by program staff.

S

Service route: Transit routes that are tailored to meet the needs of a specific market segment (such as older adults or people with disabilities) in a community. Service routes often evolve out of a pattern of demand-response travel within a community. Characteristics of a service route include stops at high-density residential complexes or group homes, shopping areas, medical facilities, and destinations specific to the target population such as senior centers or sheltered work sites. Stops are usually positioned near an accessible entrance of a building instead of on the street, and the ride times are typically longer than on a “conventional” fixed route covering the same general area. Vehicles tend to be smaller and accessible to people with disabilities, and drivers usually offer a relatively high level of personal assistance.

Stair chair: Foldable chair that can be used by medical and non-medical transporters to transport passengers in a seated position through narrow halls or up and down stairs.

San Diego Association of Governments (SANDAG): SANDAG is San Diego region’s Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) and Council of Governments (COG), bringing together local decision-makers to develop solutions to regional issues, including equity, transportation, air quality, economic development, public health, public safety, housing, and more.

State Units on Aging (SUAs): Agencies of state and territorial governments designated by governors and state legislatures to administer, manage, design, and advocate for benefits, programs, and services for the elderly and their families and, in many states, for adults with physical disabilities. The term “state unit on aging” is a general term. The specific title and organization of the governmental unit will vary from state to state and may be called a Department, Office, Bureau, Commission, Council, or

Board for the elderly, seniors, aging, older adults, and/or adults with physical disabilities. Since 1965 all State Units on Aging have administered the Older Americans Act (OAA) in their respective states. Through a state network of area agencies on aging and service providers, a range of services is provided to older persons including home care, congregate and home-delivered meals, transportation, information and assistance, and advocacy on behalf of individual older citizens. SUAs also have significant policy, planning, and advocacy roles in leveraging other federal, state, and local public and private funds to support programs on aging.

Subscription service: When a passenger or group of passengers requests a repetitive ride (such as on a daily or weekly basis) trips are often scheduled on a subscription or “standing order” basis. The passenger makes a single initial trip request, and the transit system automatically schedules them for their trip(s) each day or week. This service is frequently used in transporting human service agency clients to regular agency programs.

T

Title III: A title of the Older Americans Act that authorizes expenditures for nutrition and transportation programs that serve older persons.

Title VI: A title of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 that ensures that no person in the United States will be discriminated against based on race, color, or national origin. The transportation planning regulations, issued in October 1993, require that metropolitan transportation planning processes be consistent with Title VI.

Transportation disadvantaged: A term used to describe those people who have little or no access to meaningful jobs, services, and recreation because a transportation system does not meet their needs. Often refers to those individuals who cannot drive a private automobile because of age, disability, or lack of resources.

V

Vanpool: A prearranged ridesharing service in which several people travel together on a regular basis in a van.

Volunteer Network: A volunteer network matches requests for transportation with a volunteer driver who is typically reimbursed on a per-mile basis. Persons requesting service call the network and the network calls the driver and schedules the trip. Volunteer networks are frequently used in rural areas where resources are scarce, persons needing transportation may live in remote areas, and a sense of community is not uncommon.

W

Wheelchair-Accessible Vehicle (WAV): A vehicle compliant with ADA and accommodates a passenger using a wheelchair or other personal mobility device who needs a ramp or lift to enter or exit the vehicle.

Age Well San Diego

Age Well San Diego is a regional initiative led by the County of San Diego to make our communities better places for people of all ages to live healthy, safe, and thriving lives. In 2016, the San Diego County Board of Supervisors joined the AARP® Network of Age-Friendly Communities and the Dementia Friendly America Network and launched Age Well San Diego to plan for the rapidly growing older adult population in our region. In joining these networks, the County committed to a five-year process of assessing needs and working with community residents, organizations, and other stakeholders to develop, implement and evaluate an action plan. The Age Well San Diego Action Plan was developed in 2018 as a part of the initial Age Well San Diego Action Plan and later updated in 2022 to reflect the current needs and priorities of the community. Age Well San Diego includes goals in five focus areas: Dementia, Health & Community Support, Housing, Social Participation, and Transportation. Various community teams made up of County staff, service providers, residents, and other stakeholders meet regularly to guide implementation, monitor progress on the plan, and assist with evaluation activities. The Age Well Transportation focus area community team is referred to as the Transportation & Community Connections Team.

The Transportation & Community Connections Team brings together residents and professionals from across the region to create a safe, accessible, and equitable community that is well-connected to resources and activities. The mission statement of the Transportation & Community Connections Team was revised in 2023 and reads:

“Support affordable, accessible, and equitable transportation and connections to community, quality-of-life activities, and spaces for all ages.”
