DPR facilities build strong and sustainable communities by providing residents with space to exercise, recreate and gather, which supports their physical, social, emotional and mental well-being. DPR's award-winning park system features 157 facilities across 58,000 acres of land, including parks, campgrounds, sports parks, community and teen centers, splash pads, fishing lakes, open space preserves, historic sites and over 380 miles of trails.

In an effort to meet the need of a growing and changing San Diego population, the County maintains a Parks Master Plan (PMP) and identifies important projects for that Plan, in part, through Park Land Dedication Ordinance (PLDO) Priority Letters.
