Hey everyone, I do not normally email out like this for help, but this is an SOS for our small beautiful community. We need EVERYONE that could possibly help our little town get some attention right now, we really need help.

This video explains our dire situation that will be voted on this Wednesday by the San Diego Board of Supervisors.

SaveJacumba.org for more information on how to help.

Please share or have anyone you know that has a large social network to please share, please please please. If you are a part of any community groups on facebook or other social networks, like nextdoor, this could make a huge difference. This is such a big deal for us... it is really hard to describe how important this is to our little community and you never know who ends up seeing it that could make a difference for us.

If you have connections at SDCP or the Board of Supervisors, please take the time for us to make that call. This project is just wrong.

Thank you so much,
Jeff Osborne
