"Relevant analytical skills" means the learned abilities that a commissioner may need to successfully complete the work of the commission. All of my skills learned and honed as an auditor involved having an excellent math comprehension, being able to gather and comprehend difficult information, being able to read and understand technical data (State and Federal Laws and decisions), an ability to participate in public hearings (presenting taxpayer advocate seminars) , listen to witness testimony and develop appropriate questions (concurrence or disagreement with audit findings), familiarity with computer skills (Excel, Word, Creating website), and assessing credible information received (distinguish relevant facts from opinion and develop valid support for that opinion).

2. What experience do you possess that demonstrates an ability to be impartial?

Ability to be "impartial" means that although of one's strong views, and participation in social or political causes, one can still maintain a capacity and willingness, while serving as a member of the commission.

I am able to set aside my personal views and other considerations in order to evaluate information with an open mind and make decisions that are fair to everyone affected, including, but not limited to, the establishment of legislative and State Board of Equalization districts that are in compliance with the United States Constitution and the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

My lifelong occupation as an auditor is one where all of my decisions were unbiased and based upon facts. Academically I served in many school government positions. My lifelong volunteering activities include assisting in the local schools, leadership and accounting roles in the Scouts, church and nonprofit organizations (Dinosaur museum) and serving as a member of the Women's Advisory Committee for the CA Dept of Tax and Fee Administration.

All of my volunteering activities exposed me to wide varieties of life's content and experiences. In all cases, I displayed my ability to set aside any personal interests, political opinions, and group allegiances to achieve a broad objective. I have no personal, family, financial relationships, commitments, or aspirations that a reasonable person would consider likely to improperly influence someone making a redistricting decision.

You are encouraged to limit your response to one page, however if more space is needed, you may attach an additional page.

3. What experience do you possess that demonstrates an appreciation for the diverse demographics and geography of the County of San Diego?

-The people of California reside in many different localities with distinct geographic characteristics that may reflect the preferences of the residents concerning their political representation.

-California benefits by having effective participation in the electoral process by persons of all demographic characteristics and residing in all geographic locations.

My occupation as an auditor exposed me to a wide variety of employers in the State of California and their employees. My participation in the State Women's Advisory Committee for 6 years gave me a good taste of a variety of viewpoints. Growing up as the daughter of a Navy Chief and moving every few years exposed me to a variety of people throughout the United States both as a minority and majority. Volunteering gave me a perspective of individual commitment not based upon personal gain. Personal travel during my 20's throughout Europe opened my eyes to different perspectives in different countries. My diverse background gave me the life perspective of realizing and accepting a wide variety of viewpoints and beliefs and allowed me to understand and accept those varieties.
