Fully understanding the necessity of redistricting and the challenges that go with that effort, I believe it is imperative that we retain communities with unified representation rather than bifurcate and dilute the voices of a singular community. Our community of Ramona is a distinct community with shared environs, interests and needs. We are a rural community which should be retained in unitary representation with our sister rural communities such as Lakeside, Alpine, Valley Center. Rural San Diego needs a strong and singular voice and strong unified representation.
