I am writing to ask that you do not split up the East County communities. In particular that communities like Alpine, Ramona, Blossom Valley, Poway, Santee, Descanso, etc. do not get redrawn into the border or South Bay areas. I have lived in Alpine for more than 20 years, and to draw a map with Alpine, Poway, Santee, Pine Valley, Ramona, National City, Chula Vista, San Ysidro, etc. all in one district, does not reflect, empower or well represent the existing and established communities and their respective needs.

The existing East County areas have not only shared and developed personal, business and governmental commonalities and reliances over the last 40-50 years but we are similiar demographically and topographically. We share school districts, medical districts, fire and public safety districts and concerns are similiar.

Thank you - Mary Kay Borchard
